Genoa, June 28, N. S.

YESTERDAY Morning a Detachment of 2000 Infantry from Don Phillip's Army arrived in St. Pier d'Arena, and continued their March to join that of M. de Gages, whoſe Head Quarters were at Langaſco. Yeſterday arrived eleven Barks with 1200 Barrels of Gun Powder, Cannon, and other Ammunition; the Carriages and Powder are all got on Shore, and the Cannon and the whole of what they have brought will be landed as ſoon as poſſible. Laſt Night ſix Battalions of the Republick's Troops began to march from hence with their Tents and Baggage, and they have been followed by four Regiments this Morning with ſix Field Pieces. This Morning came into this Town a Battalion of the Republick's Troops, which have been draughted from the Garriſon of Savona; and after reſting two or three Days, they are to follow and join the Spaniards with the Train which will be ready to move in ſix or eight Days at fartheſt. Early this Morning Mr. Birtles, the Engliſh Conſul here, was ſent for by Signior Sartorio, one of the Secretaries of State, who acquainted him, by Order of the Doge and Senate, that the Republick had reſolved to march a Body of their Auxiliary Troops to the Aſſiſtance of France, Spain, and Naples, upon theſe Powers having given them Aſſurances to protect their State againſt any Attempts that might be made upon them. Upon a Demand lately made by Lieutenant General Schulembourg to march his Troops within Reach of the Guns of the Fort of Gavi, to attack the Spaniards, he was anſwered by the Governor of the Fort, that he could not ſuffer the Auſtrians to paſs within Reach of the Guns without firing upon them, and endeavouring to prevent the Execution of their Deſigns. M. Schulembourg thereupon ſent Word that he would Beſiege the Fort, to which the Governor returned, that he was provided for a Defence, and would defend it. Don Phillip and Marſhal Maillebois are ſtill at Savona. It is thought here that as ſoon as M. de Gages is joined by the Republick's Troops, he will advance and give the Auſtrians Battle.

Florence, July 6, N. S. The Neapolitan Troops in the Neighbourhood of Viterbo have not yet began their March, nor is any Day fixed for it, tho' a Permiſſion has been granted them to paſs thro' Tuſcany in four Columns, and the Route is agreed upon; beſides thoſe Troops, which amount to five or ſix Thouſand, excluſive of the Spaniſh Guards who took Refuge in the Port of Leghorn, there are about 900 Mules which are to march at the ſame Time: It is ſuppoſed they will be charged with the ſmall Artillery and Ammunition which they have not been able to ſend by Sea. Large Quantities of Powder and other Effects have been conſtantly ſent from Naples. Advices from Leghorn mention, that his Britannick Majeſty's Ship the Seaford, Capt. Wilſon, was arrived there with two Neapolitan Veſſels laden with Artillery and Ammunition which Capt. Vanbrugh had ſent thither.

Venice, July 9, N. S. It is now confirmed here, that the Republick of Genoa has declared itſelf an Auxiliary to the Crowns of France, Spain, and Naples, in the preſent War of Italy; and, in Conſideration of theſe Powers having guarantied the Poſſeſſion of Final, is to aſſiſt them with a Body of Troops and a Train of Artillery. The Government of Genoa has printed, and cauſed to be diſperſed, a Letter to juſtify their Conduct. The Governor of Novi came to M. Schulembourg to acquaint him with this Step, who inſtantly ordered him and the Garriſon of Novi to be made Priſoners of War. M. de Gages was advanced the firſt of this Month as far as the Bochetta. There has happen'd a little Action at Voltaggio, to the Diſadvantage of the Auſtrians, in which the Spaniards killed about 60, and took ſome Priſoners. Don Phillip is marched with his whole Army from Savona, in order to endeavour to enter Piemont by the Way of Ceva and Mondovi. The King of Sardinia is at Acqui, to obſerve the Motions of the Infant's Army.

Copenhagen, July 10, N. S. The Princeſs Royal of Denmark was moſt happily brought to Bed of a Prince the 7th Inſtant, about Eleven o'Clock in the Forenoon. The young Prince, according to the Cuſtom of this Court, was baptized ſoon after his Birth, and received the Name of Chriſtian, as alſo the Order of the Elephant, which was hung upon his Cradle; the King and Queen, together with the two Daniſh Princeſſes, being Sponſors. The Princeſs and her Son are both in a very hopeful Way.

Copenhagen, July 13, N. S. Laſt Sunday the 11th Inſtant, Te Deum was ſung in all the Churches of this City, to return Thanks for the happy Delivery of the Princeſs Royal, and the Birth of the Prince; on which Occaſion the Cannon of the Town and Citadel fired three Rounds, juſt as they had done before at the Time of the Birth. Her Royal Highneſs ſtill continues as well as can be expected or deſired in her Circumſtances, and the young Prince is in perfect Health; ſo that the Proſpect being very favourable, and every Thing in a moſt hopeful Way, they talk at the King's Court of removing again into the Country towards the End of this Week. An Ordonnance, dated the 18th of June, has been lately publiſhed here, the Purport of which is, to renew and amplify ſeveral Laws and Edicts made formerly to prevent the Growth of Popery in theſe Dominions.

Franckfort, July 13, N. S. The French, who had been poſted about Aſchaffenbourg, quitted that Place laſt Saturday Night, after having blown up Part of the Stone Bridge there; and thoſe, who were poſted about Hoechſt, ſeeing that the Allies were preparing to diſlodge them, thought proper to retire about Eleven o'Clock laſt Night, having firſt ſet Fire to the Bridge of Boats, and to the Magazine which they had there. They have ſince joined their

Army,

Army, of whoſe Motions we have not at preſent any Intelligence that can be depended upon, though it is thought they are in March from Gros Gerau and Stockſtadt, towards Worms and Rhein Turckheim. It is reported here, that the Combined Army began their March this Morning from Schwalbach towards Biberich, in order to paſs the Rhine there.

Journal of the Combined Army under the Command of the Grand Duke, from the 12th to the 16th of July, N. S. dated at Hatterſheim, at Eight o' Clock in the Morning.

UPON the 12th the Army arrived at Schwalbach, and marched from thence,

Upon the 13th to Hoffheim, where the Head Quarters were fixed. The neceſſary Preparations were made for attacking Hoechſt, and the Execution thereof was given to General Bernclau; but the French, to the Number of 1500 Men, quitted that Place in the Night, and paſſed over the Mayn in their Bridge of Boats, which they afterwards ſet fire to, but the Fire was ſoon extinguiſhed by our People, and the Bridge ſaved. The Corps which had been deſigned for the Attack upon Hoechſt, conſiſting of 2000 Irregulars of Bernclau's Regiment, 500 Huſſars, and 300 Horſe, marched immediately towards Mentz, in order to paſs the Rhine at Biberich, and to harraſs the Enemy in their Retreat towards Oppenheim.

Upon the 14th, halted. Orders were given for the Army to march the next Day.

Upon the 15th, the Army marched to the Neighbourhood of Florſheim, where it encamped, and where two Bridges were thrown over the Mayn: As ſoon as one of them was finiſhed, the Avant-Guard, under the Command of General Baronai, conſiſting of 2000 Irregular Infantry, all the Huſſars, 1000 regular Foot, and 800 Cuiraſſiers, paſſed over. At Nine o'Clock in the Morning the whole had paſſed. We had Advice that the Enemy had turned on the Side of Oppenheim higher up upon the Rhine towards Gernſheim, where, having diſarmed a ſmall Garriſon belonging to the Elector of Mentz, conſiſting of a Lieutenant and 40 Men, whom they ſent down the Rhine, they took Poſt, and encamped near that Place. His moſt Serene Highneſs dined this Day at Mentz, having given Orders for the marching the next Day.

Upon the 16th, having paſſed the Mayn at Florſheim, the Army marched to Trebur, and encamped there.

From the Camp of the Combined Army upon the Rhine, at Wallenſtedt in the Country of Heſſe Darmſtadt, between Trebur and Gerau, July 17, N. S.

YEſterday we received Advice that General Bernclau had ſurprized Oppenheim, in which were the two French Partiſans, Fiſcher and Gallau, with 550 Men, who attempting to make their Eſcape, our Huſſars and the irregular Infantry purſued them, killed ſeveral, puſhed the greateſt Part into the Rhine, and made the reſt, together with the two Partizans, Priſoners.

We have Advice from General Baronai, that his Huſſars, having come up with a Detachment of French Horſe, conſiſting of almoſt three entire Regiments, near Wolfskeel, attacked them ſo vigorouſly, that they not only killed a great Number of them, and put the reſt to Flight, but that they had alſo taken ſeveral Mules.

We have certain Intelligence that the French Army is poſted near Gernſheim in two Corps, one of which is commanded by the Prince of Conti, and the other by the Marquis de la Fare.

From the Head Quarters of the Grand Duke at Biebeſheim, July 20, N. S.

His Royal Highneſs having made the Army advance to this Place on the 19th Inſtant, and ſent before Detachments of Huſſars, Croates, and ſome regular Troops, with a Deſign to annoy the Enemy, and to amuſe them till ſuch Time as the Army could follow to give them a ſenſible Blow, they took a Reſolution to retreat entirely to the other Side of the Rhine at Nordheim. On this Occaſion Major General Baron Trips diſtinguiſhed himſelf greatly with the Huſſars and national Infantry under his Command, amounting together to about 1500 or 2000 Men, in attacking, with ſo ſmall a Proportion, the greateſt Part of the Enemy's Army that were ſtill on this Side the Rhine, conſiſting chiefly of Cavalry, and put them into ſuch Confuſion, that they were totally routed; ſo that they could not have made the leaſt Reſiſtance, had it not been for the Infantry in a neighbouring Wood, and in a Village between the ſaid Wood and the Bridge, which was lined with Artillery: It was by Favour of theſe Forces ſo ſituated, that the Cavalry got Time to retire in the greateſt Confuſion to the other Side of the Rhine, over two Bridges which they had before built there. The Enemy's Infantry themſelves having afterwards begun to file off, and being perceived by the Detachment of General Trips, the Infantry of that Detachment, conſiſting of Waradins, Carlſtadiers, and Bannaliſters, under the Command of Major General Miensky, pierced through the Head of the Bridge, after having made themſelves Maſters of the Village, and vigorouſly charged the Enemy's Infantry; but before they had got half Way over the Bridge, the Enemy ſet Fire to the Combuſtibles, which they had taken Care to fill the Boats of the Bridges with; and the Fire ſpreading with great Rapidity from one Boat to another, beginning from the other Side of the Rhine, and having burnt the Cables to which the Anchors were faſtened, our brave Infantry, to their great Sorrow, were obliged to return back to the Shore.

Hague, July 23, N. S. We have received Advice, that the Prince of Conti was obliged to paſs the Rhine with Precipitation at Nordheim on the 19th inſtant, and to burn his Bridges the Moment he was got over them. Oudenarde has been beſieged ever ſince the 18th inſtant; it makes a brisk Defence, and coſts the French ſome Men. The French King's Head Quarters are at Ghent, and his Troops ſpread themſelves quite along the Frontier of the States, on the ſide of Flanders.

Notice is hereby given to the Officers and Company of His Majeſty's Sloop the Grampus, that they may receive their ſeveral Shares of Bounty Money due for the Medea, at Mr. James Bucknall's, Merchant at Portſmouth, on Tueſday the 6th of Auguſt next, and on every Tueſday for three Years after.

Advertiſements.
